Try to use your equipment before you go – particularly your rucksack, boots and sleeping bag (if camping) – this will show up any manufacturing faults and whether they are comfortable enough. Good footwear and care of the feet is most important. Well broken-in walking boots with ankle support should be worn on treks. Trainers are too flimsy and trainer boots are not appropriate. Sandals leave the feet exposed to sunburn, abrasions, thorns, insect and animal bites.

Cotton can become sweaty and damp very quickly and does not dry easily so synthetic 'technical' clothing is recommended (these can be bought cheaply in many sports shops) instead of cotton clothing. Jeans must not be worn, they absorb moisture and sweat and take a very long time to dry, can be very warm on hot days and become heavy and uncomfortable in the wet and can painful cause problems like chafing and rubbing. Lightweight synthetic walking trousers or leggings should be worn. You do not need to spend a lot of money of kit, just be sure it is the correct fabric/type.

Bring as little as possible but bring everything you need. Travelling light makes the experience much more pleasurable, so do not bring things you can do without. If you need to wear jewellery, keep it simple and inexpensive. Always keep any clothes in a watertight bag to ensure they stay dry if there is a sudden downpour. You will need to carry at least 1.5-2.0 litres of water for this event.

With this in mind we strongly recommend you take the kit identified below, and in particular your attention is drawn to the 'essential' items and the notes above. If you are not deemed to have suitable clothing or equipment the leader has the right to not allow you to participate in the event.
